New “Halo 4: Forward Unto Dawn” Vignette Debuts: “Flag”

Source: Microsoft
Published: Monday 10th September 2012

---

343 Industries has premiered the third instalment of a series of vignettes from the upcoming live-action digital series, “Halo 4: Forward Unto Dawn.”

• Synopsis: At Corbulo Academy of Military Science, cadets master many training exercises to simulate combat missions. Two cadets share their memories of childhood, when “Capture the Flag" was just a game with less deadly stakes.

The video is available now on Machinima Prime (Machinima Prime) and Halo Waypoint (Halo Waypoint).

Please note: you’re welcome to embed the Machinima/Waypoint YouTube video or share the link with your readers, but due to copyright infringement, but please do not capture and repost it directly on your website.

“Halo 4: Forward Unto Dawn” is a live-action digital series based on the best-selling Xbox franchise that brings a brand-new “Halo” story to life on a scale never before seen in the “Halo” universe. “Halo 4: Forward Unto Dawn” delivers an exciting story of heroism and sacrifice, taking fans back to the beginning of the human and Covenant war and leading into the events of “Halo 4,” the biggest entertainment event of 2012. The series will debut on 5 October, 2012, on Machinima Prime (http://www.YouTube.com/MachinimaPrime), and on Halo Waypoint (http://halo.xbox.com/ForwardUntoDawn), and will unfold through a series of five episodes leading up to the worldwide launch of “Halo 4” on 6 November.

Halo 4 is now available for pre-order in three distinct editions: the standard edition (£49.99 ERP), the Limited Collector’s Edition (£69.99 ERP) and the Xbox 360 Limited Edition Halo 4 console bundle (£269.99 ERP) – please visit http://www.xbox.com/Halo-4 for more details.

- ENDS -